

Technical Bulletin 174

Version 1.0 12th December 2016

Instrument software on USB sticks to become obsolete

From 1st January 2017 we will no longer be providing USB sticks as standard within our instrument kits.

The latest software versions are all currently available to download for free via the Ion Science website within Customer Support, Media Centre, Instrument Software

You will be notified by email each time a new version of software has become available.

For those who require hard copies of the latest software, it will be available for a small fee on specific request.

For more information please contact us

Email: marketing@ionscience.com

Tel: +44 (0)1763 208503

